Weston-super-Mare. A hundred years ago Weston-super-Mare was only a handful of fishermen's cottages, a score perhaps in all. At the census of 1891 the population was 17,000, and in the season the town now contains more than double that number. The Grand Pier is a fine modern erection with concert hall and refreshment kiosks, largely patronised by visitors.

My Dear Mary
The reason why I have not written to you is because I have left Chelmsford and now at Peterborough will write Tuesday
